Docia expands into India

Docia enters the Indian market through a newly established partnership with Ram Caddsys Pvt Ltd, a leader in software provision to the Indian construction industry.

With recent years showing continued growth in our home market of Denmark and in the rest of the Nordic region, Docia now expands into India. Known as 'Byggeweb' in the Nordic market, the launch in India will be under the organisation's international name, Docia, and the first contracts in India have already been signed.

“We see huge potential in emerging markets and in Asia. Through a strong partnership with a well-established organisation in the Indian market, we have a solid foundation as we enter into India, where we see great potential. We grow each and every year as a result of the value we create for our customers – whether it be in the form of cost reduction, resource optimisation, an improved collaborative culture, efficiency, etc. Our ambition in India is no different – we aim to achieve a significant market share by bringing that same value to the Indian construction industry. And we do not doubt for a second that Ram Caddsys will help us attain this result,” explains Mads Bording, Docia's CEO.

“The establishment of Docia in India through our Partner Program is yet another example of our pursuit to maximise our international potential and our aim to position ourselves as a global supplier. The growth and loyalty we experience in the Nordic region is testimony to the value we create for our customers. It is precisely that which we want to bring with us as we enter new markets,” concludes Mads Bording.

It was only three months ago that Docia entered into Great Britain.
